

Risk the weather, not your wallet

Insurance. It's not a word that excites most people, but it's crucial to understand and address your legal risks so that you can relax and concentrate on enjoying your boat.

Although insurance isn't a legal requirement in the UK, if you cause injury to another person or damage to their boat or property – even accidentally – you could find yourself in court with a substantial bill for costs. You might also need third party insurance to get an inland waterways licence, to launch a boat or keep it in a marina.

With litigation on the rise and legal protection policies helping boat owners to recover expenses, are you willing to take the risk of being uninsured? It's a common belief that it's complicated, time-consuming and expensive to cover yourself – but with Navigators & General, it doesn't have to be like that.

An affordable option

Our Third Party Boat Insurance offers third party only cover for vessels up to 70 feet. From as little as £57.75 a year you'll receive £3,000,000 of cover for claims against you.

It's easy and quick to set up insurance online, and you don't need a survey. The policy also covers a number of other situations, including others using your boat with your permission.

As the UK's leading pleasure craft insurer, our 85 years of expertise allow us to offer market-leading cover – so all you need to worry about is the conditions on the water.

To see how easy it is to arrange peace of mind, visit:
www.thirdpartyboatinsurance.co.uk

NAVIGATORS
& GENERAL

A member of the  Zurich Financial Services Group